General Comment

I am opposed to any function of this rule change that impedes or prohibits an investors abilities to buy and sell stock options in an investor-driected retirement account. While I understand that some naive investors may not understand how to use options in their investment plan, I find them to be a simple and valuable tool to decrease risk and improve potential return. Please do not remove the ability to trade options in any qualified 401(K) or IRA account. Thank You!
